Cynthia will be presenting OSINT Online. Data about your client, members of their family, business partners reside on the Internet. Everything about their world is readily available, including street level and satellite images of their residences, credit records, physical and intellectual assets. Some of the information is loosely posted on social media – Facebook, Small World, My Space, Linked-in and others that can be mined for images, schools attended and work places that they can be located and placed under surveillance.

Attendees will learn how to find this information and steps to removing it as an essential step to protecting your clients from unwanted exposure and inappropriate contact.
